APPROPRIATION IS PASSED OVER VETO

City Council Approves Ordinance Providing $3,000 for Sweeping Improved Streets.

LICENSE ORDINANCE PASSED

Out-of-Town Solicitors and Peddlers Now Required to Pay Large Fee for Right.

By a vote of five to one the city council at the regular session Thursday night passed the appropriation ordinance, providing $3,000 for sweeping and flushing the improved streets in 1916, over the veto of Mayor Ross. Murray was absent and Ley was the only councilman to oppose the action taken. The ordinance is the one that was recommended by the directors of the Merchants' Association several weeks ago and was a compromise.

Clerk Albert Johnson stated that the ordinance had been returned to him without the mayor's signature, whereupon Mayor Ross read a message setting forth his reasons for refusing to sign it.

The ordinance providing for a higher license fee for the right to sell merchandise and other supplies by solicitation or by canvass through out the city was read for the third time and passed by unanimous vote.

Little other business was transacted at the session last night with the exception of street repairs which were ordered in various parts of the city. Ahlbrand moved that the street commissioner repair a hole in the brick streets at the corner of Chestnut and Tipton streets and his motion was carried.

On Hodapp's motion the custodian of the city building was ordered to replace the burned out electric light globes in the council chamber.

The street commissioner was instructed to clean out a ditch on West Tipton street, on motion of Ahlbrand.

Mayor Ross called the attention of the council to the fact that the contractors for Ewing and Chestnut streets had not made the repairs. Andrews stated that at the last meeting of the work board the clerk was instructed to notify the contractors to do the work immediately. Clerk Johnson said the letters had been sent but no replies received.

The Seymour Water Company sent a communication calling attention that under the franchise the company is entitled to an addition fire hydrant. It was stated that there is an over extension of mains of 402 feet. Under the franchise the city is required to have one fire hydrant for each 300 feet of main. Mayor Ross suggested that the action on the communication be deferred as this was one of the questions involved in the city's case against the water company and the letter was referred to the board of works.

Harry Burrell offered a bid of $200 to trim the trees in the city park and remove the trash. The bid was referred to the board of works.

A communication from the department of the division engineer of the B. & O. Southwestern Railroad was read relative to tapping a drain on

JOHN LIND TO CALL ON CARRANZA AT TORREON

Denies That he is Slated for Minister to Mexico and Desires to See The First Chief.

By United Press
San Antonio, Tex., October 29.—John Lind, former personal representative of President Wilson in Mexico, left here today for Torreon to meet General Carranza. He was accompanied by several prominent Constitutionalists and newspapermen. Lind's trip at this time has given rise to the rumor that he may be appointed minister to that country, but Lind stated today that his visit was merely to pay his personal respects to the first chief.

WINEINGER CASE WILL CLOSE TODAY

Defendant is Charged With Grand Larceny for Alleged Theft of About $30.

MANY WITNESSES ARE CALLED

If All Claims Are Filed the Expense of the Trial Will be Many Times Original Amount.

Arguments in the case of the State of Indiana against Taiton Wineinger, of Kurtz who is charged with grand larceny, will be completed this afternoon and it is expected that the jury will retire about 5 o'clock. The case has been on trial for two days. The defendant is charged with stealing between $30 and $35 from George Arthur and if the witnesses file their claims the costs of the trial will amount to many times the amount originally involved. About thirty witnesses have been placed on the stand and each is entitled to about $3 per day.

The state's case is in charge of Prosecutor Woolery and Deputy Prosecutor Montgomery. Brannan & Brannan of Brownstown, were engaged by the defendant. Every step in the trial has been hard fought and the case has attracted much attention, especially in the vicinity where the principals live.

The state brought out by testimony that a pocketbook belonging to Mr. Arthur and containing some money was found on Wineinger. The defendant stated on the stand that Arthur had given the pocketbook to him. The prosecuting witness denied this and other evidence was produced tending to show that it had been stolen by the defendant.

The opening argument for the prosecution was begun about 2:30 o'clock by Deputy Montgomery. After the arguments are completed the instructions will be read and the case will be turned over to the jury about 5 o'clock, it is believed.

Injured Man Recovering.

F. M. Blandford, the Indianapolis traveling man who was injured in the collision between the auto in which he was riding and an interurban car at Short's crossing Thursday morning, was reported as resting easier at the Schneck Memorial Hospital this afternoon, and the physicians express the belief that he will completely recover.

ANOTHER PIONEER CALLED BY DEATH

Fielding Lett, Aged 98 Years, Was One of the Oldest Residents in Southern Indiana.

WELL KNOWN IN THIS COUNTY

Deceased Was Prominent in the Development of Jennings County —Large Landowners.

Fielding Lett, who died Thursday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Wagner, in Jennings county, at the age of ninety-eight years, was one of the oldest residents in southern Indiana. He had a wide acquaintance in Jennings and adjoining counties and had a host of friends in Jackson county. He is survived by a large family of children and grandchildren. Dr. Haskell Lett, of this city, is his grandson.

The funeral will occur Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the Mt. Zion church. The services will be in charge of the Masons. The deceased was made a Mason in the Paris Crossing lodge years ago shortly after the lodge was chartered.

Mr. Lett is survived by three sons, D. M., of Crothersville, Timothy S., of Jennings county, William, of Knightstown, and two daughters, Mrs. Sarah M. Johnson, and Mrs. Wagner, of Jennings county. Three sons have died. He also leaves a very large family of grandchildren, there being twenty-two of the third generation, forty-two great-grandchildren and sixteen great-great-grandchildren. Mrs. Lett died sixteen years ago.

Fielding Lett was born in Owen county, Kentucky, September 25, 1817, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lett. His mother died when he was six years of age and his father moved to Indiana in 1827 and settled with his family in the wilderness which is now Marion township, Jennings county. He received the meager educational advantages such as were offered in the early times and just knew how to read. His father taught him to be strictly honest from his infancy and encouraged and taught him to economize in his transactions while a mere lad and promised him if he would remain at home until he was twenty-one years of age he would give him a piece of land. He remained at home until March 1837 when his father died and left him forty acres of land. By strict economy and with the advantage of working on the Madison & Indianapolis railroad, he succeeded in purchasing eighty acres more land. He was married in October 1838. His wife was delicate in health and in less than six years she died of consumption leaving him alone in the world to care for three small children. Yet he never lost courage or resolution and in 1847 he married again and took up his line of business in earnest, clearing the timber off his land and tending to his stock.

About this time Mr. Lett decided to become interested in the breeding and rearing of mules in his neighborhood which he succeeded in doing

NOTICE IS ISSUED BY CHIEF OF POLICE

Hallowe'en Celebrants Informed Destruction of Property will not be Permitted.

FEW COMPLAINTS ARE MADE

Officials will not Interfere with Innocent Fun—Special Police to be on Duty.

HALLOWE'EN NOTICE.

Word has come to this office that there has been some destruction of property under cover of Hallowe'en festivities. Effort is being made by the officials to apprehend the guilty parties with a prospect of success.

While there is no intention of restraining the youthful in these celebrations, so long as they are confined to innocent amusement, we must insist on stopping short of rowdism and destruction of property. All good citizens will recognize and observe these eminently fair suggestions. Others must face prosecution.

HARVEY L. McCORD, Chief of Police.

Although Hallowe'en has not yet arrived complaints have come to the police department of minor destruction of property in various parts of the city by crowds of thoughtless boys who are bent on celebrating this night when ghosts and goblins are supposed to walk. The police department today issued the above notice which Chief McCord states will be rigidly enforced.

It is declared that the officials have no intention of interfering with innocent fun, but that destruction of property will not be permitted and that violators of the law will be prosecuted. Reports have been circulated that one or two crowds of boys were expecting to smear black on the faces and clothing of other celebrants on the streets and it is stated that anyone attempting this will be taken in charge by the police.

The regular police force will be assisted by a number of special officers Saturday night so that property in all parts of the city can be amply protected. The celebrations have begun earlier than usual this year and every effort will be made to enforce the laws. The above notice is to be taken as a warning from the police department.

A number of merchants have taken advantage of Hallowe'en to attractively decorate their display windows. In several stores masks, and other Hallowe'en supplies are in evidence. During the last week there have been a number of parties and other social events are planned tonight and Saturday.

WOMEN TEACHERS MAY NAME ONE OF THEIR NUMBER

Movement to Name Miss Belle O'Hair, of Indianapolis, as President of State Association.

By United Press

Indianapolis, October 29.—The movement among women teachers to elect Miss Belle O'Hair, of this city, president of the State Teachers' Association, seemed to grow in strength today. Although the women teachers have long outnumbered the men, they never before have had the courage to fight for the election of a woman as president of the association.

JURY STILL OUT IN DAMAGE CASE

Trial of Suit Filed by Leona Greer Against T. S. Blish, for $15,000 Closed at Noon.

ACCIDENT THREE YEARS AGO

Plaintiff Alleges She was Injured When Automobile Hit Buggy in Which She was Riding.

The jury in the case of Leona Greer against T. S. Blish, in which the plaintiff made a demand for $15,000 damages, had not reported at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon and it was stated that there were no indications at that hour of an immediate verdict. The plaintiff alleged that she suffered permanent injuries as a result of an accident in which the machine owned by the defendant collided with a buggy in which she and a friend were driving. The trial was held in the Scott circuit court. Judge Creigmile, of Ripley county, presided.

Judge Creigmile stated over long distance telephone this afternoon that he would remain at the court house until 9 o'clock tonight and would receive a verdict until that hour. He said if an agreement should be reached during the night the jury could file their findings sealed and the announcement would be made at the morning session of court.

It was said this afternoon that the jury had not asked for further instructions since they began their deliberation.

The case went to the jury about noon today following arguments by Judge O. H. Montgomery, of the defendant, and R. H. East, of Bloomington, for the plaintiff. The case has been on trial for several days and a number of witnesses from this city were subpoenaed. Quite a few others have attended the trial as spectators.

Following the completion of the evidence Thursday afternoon Seba A. Barnes, leading counsel for the plaintiff, made the opening argument. He pointed out that the plaintiff was permanently injured and insisted that the testimony

MRS. FAIRBANK IS CHOSEN PRESIDENT

Becomes the Head of the Indiana Federation of Women's Clubs Over Mrs. L. J. Cox.

FIGURES ARE NOT ANNOUNCED

Terre Haute Candidate Was Known as "Liberal Leader"—Other Officers Named.

By United Press
Indianapolis, October 29.—Formal announcement was made today that Mrs. Clarke Fairbank, of Ft. Wayne, was elected president of the Federation of Women's Clubs over Mrs. L. J. Cox, of Terre Haute. The convention elected to follow custom and not hear the election figures. Mrs. Cox had become known as the liberal leader.

It became known this afternoon from an apparently reliable source that Mrs. Fairbank was elected by a large majority. It was reported that Mrs. Cox's home district, the Fifth, gave a large majority to Mrs. Fairbank.

Among the resolutions adopted by the federation were: that the state condemn and buy Turkey Run for a public park; that June 10 be set aside as Indiana Day and that bill boards be abolished.

It appeared today that the Federation might weather the storm of the bitter presidential fight. Mrs. Fairbank said: "Let us forget all the unpleasantness. Do not congratulate me now. I feel the situation too keenly."

Other officers elected were: Dr. Amelia Keller, Indianapolis, first vice-president; Mrs. V. F. Jones, South Bend, second vice-president; Mrs. W. S. Johnson, Bloomington, recording secretary; Mrs. E. C. Earl, Connersville, general federation secretary; Mrs. Ella J. Moore, Kokomo, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. Torrance, Indianapolis, treasurer; Mrs. A. T. Cox, East Chicago, auditor, and Mrs. S. E. Perkins, Indianapolis, trustee.

The motion of the federation not to hear the election majority was made by Dr. Keller, one of the chief backers of Mrs. Cox. Announcement of the result was greeted with moderate applause. Mrs. Cox occupied her seat on the platform as parliamentarian.

This was the first serious reverse ever suffered in federation circles by Mrs. Grace Julian Clarke, of Indianapolis, long a leader in Indiana Club circles. She championed the cause of Mrs. Cox and Mrs. S. E. Stimpson was the leader on the victorious side.

A Song of Leaves.

O Father Time, discard thy scythe!
'Tis past the time for mowing!
For autumn days are in the skies
And autumn winds are blowing
For all the grass is brown, alas!
The rose trees naked shiver
And autumn leaves are in the sheaves
Or drifting on the river.

O Father Time, discard thy scythe!
'Tis time the tools were shifted;
Since in the garden and the road
The windrowed leaves lie drifted.
The talking leaves—laughing leaves
That crowned the brow of June
Are dry and crumbled under feet
In Nature's afternoon!

Like joys of ours—like hopes of ours
With light and beauty burning,
From day to day they drop away—
Unstayed—and unreturning!
The scarlet leaves—the golden leaves
A countless multitude—
They strew the meadows lavishly
And carpet all the wood!

O Father Time, make haste, make haste
The afternoon is waning;
And in the forest boughs I hear
October's wind complaining,
And from northern seas comes down
The Winter Viking savage!
The lovely leaves, thou Genius gray,
Let not his minions ravage!

PEACE MOVE IS SEEN IN VISIT Gerard's Conference With the Kaiser Puzzling. CAUSES MUCH SPECULATION

May Have to Do With Activities In This Country Regarding Interference With Munition Shipments by German Secret Service.

Washington, Oct. 29.—The conference between Emperor William of Germany and Ambassador Gerard has become the subject of much puzzling comment here; particularly in view of the fact it is the first audience to a neutral diplomat in many months.

What was the object of the talk came up for speculation here. In the absence of any authoritative statement, this comment is purely guess-work thus far.

State department officials insist that the ambassador had no instruction to request an audience with the emperor and the department had no knowledge in advance that he was to see him.

The first suggestion brought out here was that the interview had to do with peace. If peace was discussed, it is believed it must have been on the initiative of the kaiser, as the Washington government is determined not to initiate any moves toward peace until such overtures would be welcomed.

There has been a fresh crop of reports from Berlin recently in regard to peace, but officials here do not consider that they have effected any change in the situation.

That the emanations from Berlin may now be supplemented by some move on the part of the kaiser is the inference that has grown out of his talk with Ambassador Gerard. It has been indicated, however, that if Germany is trying to enlist the co-operation of the United States in bringing about a peace discussion, his task will be difficult, in view of the attitude of the allies.

It is more than conceivable, however, that if the German emperor will go as far as to authorize the United States to inform the allies of German peace proposals they undoubtedly would be transmitted as desired.

It has been also suggested that Ambassador Gerard was presenting to the German emperor the views of the United States government with regard to activities in this country designed to interfere with munition shipments, with which the name of the German government has been connected. There is no official support for this suggestion.

MAY ASK FOR HERR RINTELEN German Agent Reported Sought by the United States.

London, Oct. 29.—Dispatches from Washington indicate that the United States is asking the extradition of Herr Rintelen, the alleged German agent involved in the American investigation of plots to stir up unrest in Mexico. It was stated at the embassy here no such request has been received there from Washington.

The papers which were found in Meloy's baggage on the Noordam and which belonged to Rintelen, have been forwarded to Washington. While showing Rintelen's activities in Mexico, yet your correspondent is informed they did not contain sufficient information to justify legal proceedings unless, meanwhile, the Washington authorities have uncovered more conclusive evidence.

Rich Milk

Carnation Milk is most convenient and economical for household use. It stays pure and sweet until opened—there is less waste than with the ordinary milk supply.

The quality and purity of CARNATION MILK—Clean, Sweet, Pure—From Contented Cows—for every cooking and table purpose are appreciated by thousands of housewives.

Carnation Milk is just pure, fresh, sweet cow's milk evaporated to the consistency of cream. Nothing added—nothing taken out but a large part of the water. Hermetically sealed and sterilized. It is absolutely pure when opened, and then keeps for several days in a cool, dry place.

Order a supply of your grocer—"The Carnation Milkman." The Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Co., Seattle, U.S.A., will send you their new cook book free for the asking.

Recipe for French Toast

1/2 cup Carnation Milk, 1/2 cup water, 1 egg, 1/4 teaspoonful salt, pinch of pepper. Mix the Carnation Milk and water, add egg, salt and pepper. Beat well. Dip the bread into this mixture, and fry to a golden brown on a greased griddle iron.

TWENTY-ONE DEAD IN SCHOOL FIRE

Children Trapped By Flames Are Panic Stricken.

Boston, Oct. 29.—When fire destroyed St. John's Catholic parochial school at Peabody, Mass., twenty-one girls, ranging in age from six to eighteen years, lost their lives.

Most of the bodies were burned beyond recognition.

Several were severely and possibly fatally burned, and a score or more suffered from minor burns or bruises. Most of those who perished died in a terrible jam which occurred inside the front entrance, at the foot of the main stairway.

It was here that the children, marching from the two upper floors in accordance with the fire drill they had often had, became panic-stricken at the sight of smoke and flames and broke ranks in a desperate endeavor to get into the open air.

Pushed from behind, those in front were knocked down and trampled under foot, there to die as the fire quickly enveloped them. The others fled to the windows where they either jumped or were thrown to safety. The sisters made their escape by other doors. There were seven hundred children in the building, most of them on the two upper floors.

At first there were rumors that a boiler explosion started the fire, but State Chemist Webber stated he thought the fire was due to either a match or spontaneous combustion in a closet back of the boiler room and under the front stairs.

DECREE TO WOMAN REVOKED

Following Insult, Goshen Judge Gives Divorce to Man.

Goshen, Ind., Oct. 29.—After Eva S. Delcamp-Phillips had received a decree from Robert Phillips, Judge Drake, noting it was the second time the plaintiff had been divorced, expressed to her his hope that she would not again find it necessary to seek such relief.

Mrs. Delcamp-Phillips in response addressed the judge in insulting language and he revoked the decree. Then the defendant entered, filed a cross bill, and the court, having become convinced through personal experience that the woman was of ungovernable temper, granted the decree to the husband.

BRIAND HEADS NEW CABINET

Accepted Responsibility of New Government.

VIVIANI MINISTRY FALLS

Diplomatic Negotiations In the Balkans Caused Much Unrest and Criticism—Viviani's Strength Taxed and Said to Desire a Rest.

Paris, Oct. 29.—The coalition ministry, formed Aug. 26, 1914, by Premier Viviani to direct the war, and which succeed in holding the confidence of the chamber for fourteen months, resigned.

Artiste Briand, former premier and minister of justice in the Viviani cabinet, was asked by President Poincare to form a new ministry and accepted the responsibility. The final decisions regarding the constitution of the new government are now being made.

The cabinet situation as announced by the Temps, an announcement, which may be regarded as semi-official, is as follows: "Negotiations for the transformation of the cabinet continued all the morning. M. Briand, in reply to questions put to him said:

"I have been charged with the formation of a cabinet and already have secured the support of Leon Leon Bourgeois, De Freycinet, M. Combes, M. Meline and Denys Cochin."

Among the others expected to accept portfolios in the new cabinet and the probable offices are:

Charles Defreyne, vice president of the cabinet and minister of state.

Professor Paul Painleve, minister of public instruction and inventions concerning national defense.

Jules Meline, former premier, minister of agriculture.

Rene Renoult or Gabriel Quist 'Hau, minister of labor.

M. Cambon, minister of foreign affairs.

Former Premiers Emil Combes and Leon Bourgeois, Denys Cochin and Jules Quesde, ministers without portfolio.

The belief was expressed by persons in close touch with the situation that Premier Viviani's long service through the period since the outbreak of the war had taxed his strength severely and that he desires to rest, as well as to bring forward some strong figure who can unite all elements as his successor.

This new cabinet upset follows a week of much agitation in France, shown particularly in the chamber of deputies, where a growing tendency to criticize and query the government regarding Balkan affairs, particularly, has been noticed.

It is expected that M. Ribot, minister of finance, and M. Millerand, minister of war, will be associated with the new cabinet.

BRITAIN MAY GET NEW GUN

Automatic Dynamite Weapon Invented by An American.

Baltimore, Oct. 29.—The design of an automatic gun, said to be able to throw a pound of dynamite twenty miles, that is being considered by Great Britain, has just been completed and patented by Edward Ferguson of this city.

The powerful explosive is said to be inclosed in a thin copper cylinder which, in turn is fastened in a gun-cotton lined percussion capped casing. This missile is inserted in the gun barrel at the breech. One man operating it could fire it about three times in two minutes, but with two men it could be made to hurl a charge every seventeen seconds.

DEATH FOLLOWED REUNION

After Separation of Sixty-Five Years Sisters Meet.

Warsaw, Ind., Oct. 29.—The reunion of two sisters, Mrs. Pelton Hayes of Warsaw, and Mrs. Cornelia Womack of Tacoma, Wash., after a separation of more than sixty-five years, was followed six days later by the death of Mrs. Hayes. Chance brought the sisters together.

A colored woman, who for years was cook at the Winona hotel, moved to Tacoma, where she heard of the search Mrs. Womack was making for her sister in Indiana. By communicating with Warsaw persons, Mrs. Womack found her sister. Mrs. Hayes was more than eighty years old.

Brothers Fight; One Hurt.

Marion, Ind., Oct. 29.—As the result of a quarrel between brothers at Radley, Clark Howell, twenty-one, is in the city hospital here. It is alleged he was struck over the head with an iron hook by his brother, Ralph Howell, thirty-one. The elder Howell maintains he struck only in self-defense.

Guardian Denied.

Marion, Ind., Oct. 29.—After deliberating about fifteen minutes, a jury in the circuit court decided Jesse Nelson, an aged resident of Gas City, is capable of managing his affairs and dismissed a petition for a guardian.

NET IN BOMB CASE MAY GRAB FIVE MEN

Higher Ups of Teuton Plotters to Be Arrested.

New York, Oct. 29.—Rumors that at least four or five more arrests would follow in connection with the alleged conspiracy of Robert Fay, Max Breitung, Walter Scholz and others to tie high explosive mines to munition carrying ships might be looked for at any hour, were caused by the presence of at least two federal detectives in Hoboken.

It is expected that the five men will be indicted next week. United States Attorney Marshall said that the men would be accused of a felony and that there were several statutes under which the indictments could be voted.

The secret service agents are said to have searched thoroughly certain parts of Hoboken.

That other arrests in the course of the investigation now being made might be expected was asserted by both Chief Flynn and United States Attorney H. Snowden Marshall. Those men, however, are reported to be looking not so much in the direction of Hoboken, or "Little Germany," as they are toward financial offices in this city or to uptown hotels, where it was possible that some director of secret German operations might be living.

Dr. Klenzie was released from the Tombs on furnishing $25,000 bail.

TWO NOTES TO GO TO BRITAIN

Are Outgrowth of Claims of Chicago Packers.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Following a conference between President Wilson and Secretary Lansing with respect to the Chicago packers' claim against the British government, the statement was made in responsible quarters that the president will shortly dispatch two notes to London, calling upon Great Britain to withdraw from the position it has assumed in the controversy.

The first one of these notes will protest against the action of the British prize court in condemning the cargoes of vessels on the presumption that they were intended for use in Germany.

The second note will call for the release of the twenty-nine vessels which have been seized but which have not been thrown into the prize court.

According to the administration's viewpoint the facts in the packers' cases are not in question or in dispute. The chief question is whether or not England can prevent the packers, as well as all other American exporting interests from carrying on their trade with neutral European countries.

BODY IS FOUND ON TRACKS

Was Identified as Daughter of Farmer Pittsburg Mayor.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 29.—The headless body of Miss Sophia McCallin, daughter of the late William C. McCallin, former mayor of Pittsburg, was found late at night on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks at Roup, a passenger station within the city limits.

The body was so badly crushed that identification was impossible until her absence from the office of E. S. Morrow, city controller, whose secretary she was, started an inquiry, and was established by a diamond pin bearing her name. The circumstances leading to her death are unknown.

THIEF PURSUED BY POSSE

Escaped Prisoner From Sheriff at Lafayette Hunted.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 29.—Word was received here from Syracuse, N. Y., that John H. Voelker of Chicago, a convicted diamond thief, who escaped from a train here six weeks ago while being taken from Crown Point to the state reformatory at Jeffersonville, was being pursued by a posse near Syracuse.

Voelker, who was handcuffed to another prisoner, slipped the manacle over his hand and leaped from the train while in the custody of Sheriff Whitaker of Lake county.

B. AND O. R. R. PIERS BURN

Loss Is Estimated at Nearly $750,000 at Baltimore.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 29.—The extensive terminals on the water front of the Blue Funnel line, operating in transporting munitions and supplies of war from the United States and Canada to British and Russian possessions in the far east, were burned at an estimated loss of between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000.

The fire is attributed to the work of agents or sympathizers of Germany.

MAYOR'S VETO.

The text of Mayor Ross' message to the council explaining his veto of the appropriation ordinance providing $3,000 for sweeping the improved streets during the fiscal year of 1916 is as follows:

I herewith return appropriation ordinance for improved streets for 1915 without my approval. The graveled streets of Seymour suffer by comparison with the country roads in the immediate vicinity to say nothing of the splendid roads and streets in the counties and cities north of us. One cannot visit Columbus, Edinburg, Franklin, Greensburg, Shelbyville, and go over their graveled streets in any kind of a vehicle, observe their freedom from ruts, washes and worn out road material without wondering why Seymour cannot have equally as good graveled streets.

Inquiry of the officials of these cities will disclose the fact that they frequently drag their streets; keep them constantly crowned and that they go over them at regular intervals putting gravel here and there where needed. This regular systematic annual treatment keeps the streets in a constant state of repair at much less cost than hit or miss, haphazard methods that allow a street to become practically impassable before giving it attention. Now we think it must be evident to all that lack of this regular annual systematic attention is the cause of the condition of our graveled streets which the Republican describes as deplorable and adds that they have not been worse in years. We think all are agreed that gravel streets should have systematic attention. The question is why have they not had it? The reason is plain. The street, sewer and alley appropriations have all been dumped into one fund, namely the street fund. The appropriations should be itemized; the improved streets gravel streets, sewers, and alleys, each receiving the amount that past experience suggests that they need, each receiving its just proportion none being favored, none being neglected. Failure to itemize the appropriations in the past has, we think, resulted in favoring the improved streets at the expense of the gravel streets, sewers and alleys. This has gone on from year to year until it is now proposed to expend $833 a mile for mere cleaning of improved streets, while unimproved streets get only $77 per mile for all purposes, cleaning and repairs. That one-eighth of the mileage should get one and one-half times the appropriation that the other seven-eighths get is so palpable unfair that it would seem it would only need to be stated to be seen. When you add to this the fact that our street cleaning is costing double and treble that of our neighboring cities, then conditions become well nigh intolerable.

Columbus cleans three miles of improved streets by hand for $2,243, $747 per mile. Seymour is asking $833 per mile and has a machine.

Crawfordsville keeps thirteen miles of brick streets clean with five men and one team full time and one team half time. The force works full time from April to December and less than half time from December to April. The total expense is about $4,000 a year for the thirteen miles or about $300 per mile against $833 per mile for Seymour.

Franklin has five miles of improved streets, brick. They get up specifications and advertise for bids early in the year for cleaning to begin April 1 and continue until November 1, seven months. I call attention to the fact that Seymour merchants only use the sprinkler six months in the year. At Franklin the cleaning of the five miles was bid off at $50 a week this year, making the cost $1,500 for seven months. Now it seems that the regular force consisting of one team and driver and three men take care of all the streets sewers and alleys the remainder of the year, payroll for this time being about $1,400. Assuming one-half of this goes to improved streets, we have $2,200 for five miles or $440 per mile against Seymour's proposed $833 per mile.

Lebanon has nine miles of improved streets. The statement of that city is not as clear as it might be but assuming that a full force is employed every day in the year instead of seven and eight months as in Franklin and Crawfordsville, respectively, the annual expense is $400 per mile against Seymour's $833.

Washington cleans three miles of brick streets with a rotary sweeper for $900 or $300 per mile, against Seymour's $833.

Bedford probably furnishes the best comparison for Seymour on account of using flusher similar to ours. They have six miles of brick streets. Total cost of cleaning is $1,800 or $300 a mile. Of this amount City pays $600, county $300 and abutting property holders balance.

Taking the five cities using implements for cleaning the average cost per mile is $348. This ordinance proposed $833 a mile for Seymour, more than double, or to be exact 60 per cent. more. It is needless to add that no private business could long survive that was 60 per cent. inefficient. Neither could a city, but for its taxing and bond issue capacity. Seymour has about 3.6 miles of improved streets at the average cost of cleaning, $348 a mile, this appropriation should be $1,252 whereas the ordinance demands $3,000. Thus we see vastly more is spent on the improved streets than is needed, while the graveled streets have had practically no attention for eight years and are consequently reeking with worn out road material; full of ruts and washes, making it difficult to draw a reasonably load or to pass over them safely at a reasonable speed in a light vehicle. To say nothing of impairing the efficiency of the fire department on which we are expending over $10,000 a year by impeding their progress to fires with a possibility of a broken axle or spring or other accident which might prevent their arrival at all.

In view of these facts, it would seem there is lack of efficiency in our street cleaning and we are warranted in assuming that $1,900, the amount proposed by the minority of the council, Rockstroh, Murray and Ley, is more than enough to keep the improved streets clean and sanitary. The council has already had a proposal which would cut the whole cost ten percent. I allude to Mr. Kasper's proposal to take up the sweepings for one-half of what we are now paying. It is to be hoped the council will reconsider this eminently liberal proposal and yet award this contract to Mr. Kasper, thereby saving the city $300 per year, the equivalent of 400 loads of gravel. While we agree that improved streets should be kept clean we cannot admit that the cost necessarily is sixty per cent. higher than in the neighboring cities. Mindful of our oath of office it follows we cannot conscientiously consent to the city of Seymour paying sixty per cent. more for a given service than neighboring cities are paying. We are accordingly impelled to return ordinance without approval.

JOHN A. ROSS, Mayor.

NATIONAL COMMITTEE TO MEET DECEMBER 14

Republican Leaders Will Then Decide Upon Convention City—Campaign Issues.

By United Press.
New York, October 29—The Republican National Committee will meet in Washington December 14 to select a convention city and to begin the mobilization for 1916. Chairman Hilles made this announcement today and indicated the main lines along which the campaign to restore the Republican party to power will be waged.

They are:
First: An attack upon the Democratic tariff.

Second: Criticism of the Wilson administration's handling of foreign affairs, both in Mexico and in Europe.

KING GEORGE BRUISED BY FALL FROM HORSE

His Majesty Was Inspecting Troops in Northern France When Mount Fell.

By United Press.

London, October 29—King George is suffering from severe bruises due to a fall from his horse, it was announced today. The king is confined to his bed. He passed a fair night, his doctor stated. His temperature was given as 99.2 and his pulse as 77.

His majesty's accident occurred Thursday morning. He was inspecting the army in the field in northern France when his mount fell, excited by the troops' cheers.

It was said the king must remain in bed for "the present."

Assurance was given that he had improved over night, however, and there were no complications.

CONSOLING, INDEED

Out in Iowa there is a parole law that shows many of the beautiful workings of similar laws in Indiana and other states. A wife murderer was paroled from the Iowa penitentiary. Following his freedom he married another woman, choked her to death in three weeks, threw her body into the river and then consideredly went off and hanged himself. Sympathy for his last victim would be wasted. A woman who is fool enough to marry a man who has murdered one wife deserves to be strangled.—Washington Herald.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

BROTHERHOOD TONIGHT.

The Brotherhood of the Presbyterian church will hold its regular monthly social meeting tonight, and the men are planning a big time. Rev. Mr. Compson, who has toured most all of the world, will give an illustrated lecture telling of his experience in various lands. Mr. Compson has had some select oysters shipped direct from Baltimore and after the lecture the men will enjoy an oyster supper. This meeting is for men, and all men of the city, whether belonging to any church or not, are cordially invited to attend and enjoy the evening.

HICKORY NUT HUNT.

A. F. Biddle's class of boys of the Christian church were given an outing Thursday and gathered hickory nuts. Ray R. Keach furnished the auto truck and they spent the day in the woods near Tampico. The boys were quite successful in their hunt and the nuts will be sold and the proceeds added to the church building fund to which they have pledged a certain amount.

HALLOWEEN PARTY.

The C. I. C. class of the First Baptist church was given a delightful Halloween party Thursday evening by the teacher, Mrs. Thomas Ross, at her home on East Second street. The house was decorated in fodder, jack-o-lanterns and black cats and the games were in keeping with the Halloween spirit. A pleasant feature of the evening was a "dutch lunch" served by the hostess. There were twenty-two present.

WEDDING ANNOUNCED.

Cards were received here today announcing the marriage of Miss Frances Sheldon, of Tell City, and Mr. E. P. Weatherhold, of Tobinsport. The bride has often visited here with Miss Thelma Wheeler and will be remembered by many of her friends.

Officers' Banquet.

The officers and directors of the Seymour Commercial Club banqueted at the German Lutheran Club rooms Thursday night and following the supper an informal meeting was held in one of the committee rooms there. Practically all the officers and directors were present. It is understood they discussed plans for the future development of the Club, as an important factor in the industrial and business circles of Seymour.

BALDHEAD CLUB
SHINES IN FEAST

Various Degrees of Hairlessness Meet at Winsted, Conn.

WILSON HONORARY MEMBER

Former President Taft Says Shiny Head Is Good and Essential Requisite For Membership—Another Says Brains, Like Potatoes, Do Not Ripen Until Foliage Above Ground Is Dead.

Various degrees of baldness ranging from the thin and scraggly to the cranial billiard ball were represented at the fourth annual dinner of the Baldhead Club of America at Winsted, Conn., the other night. Two hundred smooth and glistening domes were present from various parts of New England, New York and New Jersey.

President Wilson was congratulated on his betrothal and enrolled as an honorary member of the club. In a letter to John Rodemeyer of Canaan, founded of the club, former President Taft said in part:

"I observe that some hair tonics are advertised with the candid statement, for the purpose of encouraging belief in the other claims, that they will not cure shiny bald heads. I should think that that feature of shininess was essential to a good and regular standing as an active member of your association, and I am sure that I do not possess it.

"When I last saw you the only ground for supposing that you were a bona fide member of the club was that you were wearing a wig; otherwise you are a pretender and a fake claiming membership therein."

Subject Treated Seriously.

The principal address was made by Edward G. Riggs of New York, executive assistant of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. Mr. Riggs said in part:

"I appreciate the honor of this opportunity, and I want to treat my subject seriously. It is serious. I shall be frank. In the limited time at my disposal I should like to emphasize the intellectual ascendancy which this organization undoubtedly has over the rest of mankind.

"The laugh today is on the long haired man. He can't belong to our organization. That is a distinct handicap. Intellectually we baldheaded men are very much in the open. I do not want to claim everything for the bald heads. I am willing to admit that some men have done pretty well with a hair handicap, especially poets and musicians. On the other hand, gentlemen, I want to assert as I look down on you that hirsute sterility is not incompatible with mental virility. I rather like that phrase. I was thinking it over in the train coming up here today and, as is my custom, allowed my hand to play with the fringe of hair on the back of my head. Too much hair distracts mental effort. A fringe that can be gently toyed with on the back of the head and perhaps a sparse forelock that can be trained help mental effort.

Bald Men Are Efficient.

"We baldheaded men have efficiency statistics with us, and in these days anything that is labeled 'efficiency,' whether it is or not, gets the popular vote. Moreover, we have got nature with us. Take a look at nature and you will be convinced—potatoes, for example. Potatoes are no good until their foliage above the ground is dead. It is the same with brains. Until the hair is dead the brains are not ripe.

"In making these remarks, however, I do not intend to speak slightly of those of our guests here who are not eligible for membership in this august body of intellectuals. It is true that none of these gentlemen who has any hair on top of his head was born that way, but if this which was thrust up on him later in life continues to remain now we must not condemn him. There are exceptions to every rule. In my time, gentlemen, I have known several men who had hair who were fairly intelligent."

HOW TO BLOW YOUR NOSE.

Cleveland Doctor Urges Teaching Children This Important Accomplishment.

Dr. B. Metzbaum of Cleveland at a state meeting of nose, eye and ear specialists at Milwaukee, Wis., laid down the new theory that children's education should be made to include a complete and full course on how to blow the nose.

After the specialists had determined that there is great danger of permanent deafness, if not the more serious infected condition of the breathing apparatus and other head troubles, with such results as mastoid troubles, by improper blowing of the nose, Dr. Metzbaum declared:

"Do not squeeze both nostrils and blow. In my opinion it is more healthful and beneficial to expectorate than to blow the nose wrongfully."

The doctors agreed that the trumpet method of nose blowing often drives secreted scales into the ear cavity and causes serious complications.

JURY STILL OUT IN DAMAGE CASE

showed conclusively that she was thrown from the vehicle when the automobile hit it.

Sam Wells, of Scottsburg, who was associated with Judge Montgomery for the defendant, made the second argument. He contended that the injuries, if any, from which the plaintiff is suffering, were not due to the automobile accident. He said that her relatives and attorneys had continually told her that she was in bad physical condition until she believed it. He argued that the evidence did not show that half of the road had been given by the buggy to permit the automobile to pass and that if the buggy had been hit by the machine, the defendant was not liable as the accident was due to the carelessness of the plaintiff's company. He further argued that the plaintiff jumped from the buggy and was not thrown from it.

J. P. MORGAN HAS MILD ATTACK OF APPENDICITIS

New York Financier Undergoes Operation at Noon, but Condition is Reported Satisfactory.

By United Press.
New York, October 29.—J. P. Morgan, head of the great banking house of Morgan & Company and only a short time ago the victim of a would-be assassin, was operated on for appendicitis at his home, Glen Cove, Long Island, at noon today.

The operation was successful in every way, said the announcement from an official of Morgan & Company. Morgan is now resting comfortably and his doctors believe he will have a rapid recovery.

The statement made public by the firm follows:

"Mr. Morgan was at his office on Wednesday. Yesterday he was indisposed and remained at his home in Glen Cove. His physicians discovered he was suffering from a mild attack of appendicitis. In order to guard against a recurrence they decided to remove the appendix. The operation was performed at noon by Doctors Lyle and Smith, who report that it was successful in every way and that Mr. Morgan is resting comfortably. Mr. Morgan's general condition is so excellent that his prompt recovery is expected."

All the members of Mr. Morgan's family were at Glen Cove when the operation was performed, it was stated.

A Mystery.

What matter is no one can tell. The scientists have been trying to find out for centuries, and without success. We have given names to the various parts and forms of stuff called matter, but the "thing in itself" is a mystery. ## COST OF LIVING UP 15 PER CENT

People of United States Thus Pay a Direct War Tax.

HUGE EXPORTS THE CAUSE.

Sugar, Meat and Flour, in Great Demand, Have Steadily Increased in Price Since the Beginning of the Struggle in Europe—Big Crops Do Not Reduce the Cost to Consumer.

The cost of living in the United States has been forced up fully 15 per cent today, directly and indirectly, by the European war from what it was in July, 1914, before hostilities.

With the huge exportation of food-stuffs to the allies the prices of food commodities have gone soaring. Meat, flour and sugar—the three staples of diet which have been shipped in vast quantities to Great Britain and France—have increased in price in New York city from 11 per cent to 20 per cent in the last fifteen months.

America Helps to Pay.

The war is making itself felt in America, keenly striking at a vital point in national life. Indirectly the nation is paying a heavy tax to help feed countries whose normal method of obtaining their food has been stopped or interrupted by the war, and the tax is levied on the point where the burden already is great—the cost of food.

Since the beginning of the war on July 28, 1914, the rise in cuts of meats has averaged 12 per cent, flour has gone up 20 per cent, sugar is 11 per cent higher, and eggs cost 18 per cent more. The average of the advance in these four necessities of life amounts to 15 per cent. In the same period the exports of meat, flour and sugar have increased enormously. In the case of fresh beef 4,000 per cent more beef was exported from New York in July, 1915, than in the corresponding month the previous year, the month before the war.

The effect of the high prices induced by this excessive exportation is having a serious effect on New York city. New York is composed of families whose breadwinners average from $15 to $20 a week. Granting that a family whose yearly income is $1,000 spends $600 of that for food, the 15 per cent rise in the cost of living means an increased expenditure for maintenance of $90 a year.

This added burden of $90 is in the way of a direct tax. The family income is no greater, so this additional tax must be met by cutting on some of the other expenses. This money must be taken from the amount of the savings, the amusement fund or what was intended for the education of the children.

Meat has been one of the commodities most closely affected by the swollen exportation to supply the armies of Europe. Since last July prime rib roast beef has increased 16 per cent, pot roast 8 per cent, porterhouse steak 20 per cent, sirloin steak 7 per cent, round steak 8 per cent and chuck steak 17 per cent—an average increase of 12 per cent. The housekeeper is forced to pay today from 2 to 5 cents more per pound for meat.

Some Illuminating Figures.

Although the United States in the corresponding month in 1913 only shipped 2,200,000 pounds of sugar from New York, in the first twenty-four days of August, 1914, this country had exported to England 39,919,100 pounds, to Ireland 17,966,266 pounds and to Scotland 1,170,850 pounds. The price of sugar today wholesale is $4.90 for 100 pounds, an increase of 70 cents from the early price of July, 1914.

Despite a bumper wheat crop in this country and a record breaking crop in Canada the price of flour in the United States is exceedingly high. Flour at retail sells now at $6.50 to $7 a barrel, an increase of about $1 a barrel over the price paid in July, 1914. Last February flour jumped to $8.50 a barrel for the best grades when the export trade was so heavy that it looked as though our surplus would be used up far in advance of the harvesting of the new crop.

Other staples that have gone up in price, being influenced indirectly more or less by the war, are eggs, butter, poultry and pork. Eggs have gone up in price, the increase in fresh eggs being 6 cents a dozen and selected eggs selling at 8 cents higher than they did a year ago last July. Fresh eggs have increased from 34 to 40 cents a dozen and selected eggs from 36 to 44 cents a dozen.

Butter is selling about 4 cents higher, a good grade of butter which formerly retailed at 32 cents now is sold at 36 cents, and special grades which formerly went at 36 cents now are held at 40 cents.

Pork has advanced uniformly from 1 to 2 cents a pound, and poultry has gone up approximately the same amount. The increase in pork, poultry, eggs and butter may be explained by the increased cost of producing these products due to the advance in grain, due in turn partially to the European war.

The Cost.

Present army appropriations.	$109,000,000
Proposed appropriations.	184,000,000
Increase	75,000,000

Secretary Garrison's plan for the increase of the army provides for the formation of a first line defense of not fewer than 540,000 men, exclusive of the national guard of the various states, at the expiration of three years, or by July 1, 1919.

The plan, which has been approved in its entirety by President Wilson, calls for a total of 140,000 men in the regular army and the creation of a citizen force of 400,000 additional men, to be designated as the Continental army. In addition, there will be available for the first fighting line in the event of war 129,000 trained members of the national guard, making a total of 669,000 men as the initial force, available for service in the event of war.

Secretary Daniels and the general board decided that in the first of the five years comprised in the new naval program there shall be constructed two dreadnaughts, two battle cruisers, twenty-five coast submarines, five sea going submarines, twelve destroyers, and that there shall be an increase of 8,000 men in the navy and an addition of 2,500 Naval academy students.

The Garrison Plan.

Under the Garrison plan the regular army will increase its fighting line 126,000 men, exclusive of noncombatants—the medical corps and other auxiliary forces—numbering about 20,000 men. The plan calls for ten new regiments of field artillery, fifty-two companies of coast artillery, fifteen new companies of engineers and four new aero squadrons. Seven of the ten new regiments of infantry will be organized on a peace strength basis of 820 men to the regiment, but in the event of war would be increased to 1,865 men to the regiment. The other three new regiments of infantry will be recruited to war strength as soon as organized, because they will be utilized in overseas duty.

Under the Garrison plan all overseas regiments will be recruited to full war strength, while the units on duty in the United States will be maintained at peace strength. There will be three full divisions of infantry on duty in the United States, one entire division of cavalry plus two extra regiments of cavalry and a division of field artillery. The remainder of the mobile army will be on duty in Hawaii, Panama and the Philippines.

Duty of the Continentalists.

The feature of the Garrison plan is the recommendation that congress authorize the creation of an army of citizen soldiers numbering 400,000, to be known as the Continental army. These men will sign contracts binding them to serve the government for six years. During the first three years they will be required to serve two months each year with the colors. During these two months the Continentalists will go into camp just as if they were regulars for training and drills. While serving with the colors they will receive the same pay as officers and men of the regular army.

During the fourth, fifth and sixth years of their enlistment these Continentalists will be subject to call to the colors in the event of war or of threatened war.

The entire 400,000 Continentalists will not be enlisted during the first year. One-third of them, or 133,000, will be enlisted the first year, 133,000 the second year and 133,000 the third year. After the third year the force will be maintained at 400,000 men. At the beginning of the fourth year the 133,000 men who enlisted the first year will pass into the Continental reserve force and be placed on furlough for three years. The ages of enlistment will be from eighteen to twenty-eight years.

REGAINS FORMER LIFE AND ENERGY

Miss F. B. Robinson Tells How She Benefited From Tanlac.

Louisville Ky., October 28, 1915.—Miss Fannie B. Robinson, of the millinery firm of Robinson & Blomer, at 1628 West Market street, this city, a successful and widely known business woman, says she found relief from Tanlac after trying other remedies with no permanent benefit.

"I was in a rundown condition," she explained recently, "and I seemed to have very poor circulation. I suffered from severe headaches, and my sleep was uncertain. I was nervous and lacked energy."

"I tried different physicians and different remedies, without getting any real relief. One day a friend said to me, 'Why not get a bottle of Tanlac? Everyone says it is fine.' I feel that I owe a great deal to the person who suggested that to me. My trouble has disappeared since I began taking this medicine. I am full of energy and vigor, eat heartily, and sleep like a child. My nerves are in fine shape, and my friends have noticed what a change has come over me. Tanlac did it all, and I am glad to say so publicly."

Tanlac, the peerless preparation, is of especial value for its tonic qualities. In cases of languor, poor appetite, sleeplessness, faulty circulation, catarrhal troubles and rheumatism it has proved of remarkable benefit, as scores have testified.

This remedy is now on sale in Seymour at The H. H. Carter drug store.

Some Foreign Coins.

The franc was formerly called livre (pound), though the connection with any special weight is not evident. The name of the German coin, mark, meaning a weight of eight ounces, was formerly in general use in Europe. The name of the Italian coin that corresponds with a franc (lira) also means pound. The coins in present use in Spain have their names from other sources. The five peseta piece is called escudo (shield). Peseta, the name of the small coin representing the monetary standard, means simply "little piece." Ruble is from the word meaning "to cut" and was so called because originally the coin was made with an ornamental edge.—London Telegraph.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIAL.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian Church gave a Halloween social last evening which was enjoyed by a large crowd of the young people of the church and their friends. Various games and contests had been arranged by the social committee, one of the most interesting of which was the track meet between representatives of various colleges. Hanover won first place, Indiana second and Purdue third. Light refreshments were served. The society is arranging for a social and entertainment on Thanksgiving evening.

OPEN HOUSE.

The Social Aid Society of the German Lutheran Church observed open house at the club building of the society last evening, and entertained a large crowd of their friends. An elegant supper was served by the Ladies' Society of the church, after which the bowling alleys and other attractions of the building were turned over to the guests. Several out-of-town guests were present.

BENEFIT SUPPER

About one hundred people were served at supper Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Carter, North Pine street, which was held under the auspices of the Susannah Wesley Circle of the First M. E. church for the benefit of the pipe organ fund. A limited number of tickets were sold. An elegant chicken supper was served.

S. S. CLASS ENTERTAINED

Ray Foster entertained the boys of his Sunday School class at the Baptist church Thursday evening. The boys were masked in accord with the Halloween idea. Various games were played appropriate to the season. Refreshments were served and the boys had a very pleasant evening.

ST. PAUL SOCIAL.

The Halloween social given by the Young People's Society of St. Paul's Church last evening was a most enjoyable occasion. The Sunday School rooms were decorated with autumn foliage, corn fodder and pumpkins, and a box supper was served. A large number of the young people were present and thoroughly enjoyed the evening.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED.

Cards have been received here announcing the marriage of Miss Elizabeth McGovern to Taylor Bowers, which occurred in Kansas City, Mo., October 7. The bride formerly lived in Seymour and has a large circle of friends here. Mr. Bowers is a passenger conductor on a railroad out of Kansas City. They have returned from their wedding trip and are at home in Kansas City.

J. B. UNION.

The Junior Baptist Union of the First Baptist church will have a party at the church Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. All members are expected to be present and bring a guest.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

Miss Grace Lucas will entertain tonight at her home near Reddington with a Halloween party. The party will be decorated with autumn leaves and Jack-o' lanterns in keeping with the Halloween season.

HALLOWEEN PARTY.

Mrs. Clifford Kern will entertain the members of her Sunday School class and their friends this evening at her home on Central avenue, with a Halloween party.

Class No. 5 of the Christian Sunday School will give a social and lunch Saturday evening from 5:30 to 8:30 at the home of Mrs. Chester Smith.

CHAPTER XV.

Anse Havey had been looking ahead. When old Milt McBriar had said "Them Haveys 'lows that I'd cross hell on a rotten plank ter do 'em t'jary" he had shot close to the mark. Bad Anse knew that the quiet-visaged old murder lord could no more free himself from guile and deceit than the rattler can separate itself from the poison which impregnates its fangs and nature.

When he had taken Milt's hand, sealing the truce, he had not been beguiled, but realized that the compact was only strategy and was totally insincere. Yet in Young Milt he saw possibilities. He was accustomed to rely on his own judgment, and he recognized a clean and sterling strain in the younger McBriar.

He hated the breed with a hatred that was flesh of his flesh and bone of his bone, but with an eye of prophecy he foresaw the day when a disrupted mountain community must fall asunder unless native sons could unite against the conquest of lowland greed. He could never trust Old Milt, but he hoped that he and Young Milt, who would some day succeed to his father's authority, might stand together in that inevitable crisis.

This idea had for a long time been vaguely taking shape in his mind, and when he met Young Milt in the woods and proposed uniting to save Juanita's school he was laying the cornerstone for that future alliance.

At sunset Young Milt came, and he came without having spoken of his purpose at home. The night was sharp and moonless, with no light save that which came from the coldly glittering stars, and Anse and Young Milt crouched for hours, knee to knee in the dead thickets, keeping watch.

At last they both saw a creeping figure which was only a vague shadow moving among shadows, and they peered with straining eyes and raised rifles. But the shadow fell very still, and since it was only by its movement that they could detect it, they waited in vain.

What hint of being watched was given out no one could say. The woods were quiet, and the two kneeling figures in the laurel made no sound. The other men, waiting at their separated posts, were equally invisible and noiseless, but some intangible premonition had come to the shadow which had lost itself in the impenetrable blackness and began its retreat with its object unaccomplished.

Young Milt went back to his house in the cold mists of dawn. No shot had been fired, no face recognized, but the Havey and the McBriar both knew that the school had been saved by their joint vigilance.

Some days later the news of that night watch leaked through to Jerry Everson, who bore the tidings to Juanita, and she wrote a note to Anse Havey asking him to come over and let her express her thanks in person.

The mail rider brought her a brief reply penned in a hand of copybook care.

"I don't take any credit. I only did what any other man would do, and young Milt McBriar did as much as I did. Thank him if you want to. It would only be awkward for me to come over there."

Respectfully, ANSE HAVEY.

Old Milt McBriar heard of his son's part in the watching of the school and brooded blackly as he gnawed at the stem of his pipe, but he said nothing. The boy had been sent away to college and had had every advantage. Now he had unwittingly but none the less surely, turned his rifle on one of his father's hirelings bent on his father's work, for the oil-soaked kindling had been laid at Old Milt's command.

The thing did not tend to make the leader of the McBriars partial to the innovations from down below.

One day, when Juanita went down to the post office, which nestled unobtrusively behind the single counter of the shack store at the gap, she found a letter directed in a hand which set her heart beating and revived many old memories.

She climbed to the crest, sat down under the poplar, and began to read the letter from the man she had sent away.

He said that he had made a sincere effort to reconcile himself to her decision which exiled him. The effort had failed. He had been to the Mediterranean and the East. His letter concluded:

"Can you not find it in your heart to be touched by my devotion? Not only happiness, but peace dwells where you are, and I am coming to you."

"Do not forbid me, for I am coming anyway. I am coming because I must; because I love you."

She sat for a long time gazing off at the distances and shivered a little in the bite of the raw air. Then she looked up and saw a figure at her side. It was Bad Anse Havey.

He bowed and stripped off his coat, which, without asking permission, he threw around her shivering shoulders.

"I didn't aim to intrude on ye," he said slowly. "I didn't know ye was up here. Do ye come often?"

"Very often," she answered, folding the letter and putting it back into its envelope. "When I first came to the Widow Everson's I discovered this tree, and it seemed to beckon to me to come up. Look!" She rose and pointed off with a gauntleted hand. "I can stand here and see the fortifications of my two enemies. There is your place and there is Milt McBriar's."

She smiled with unconscious archness. "But I'm not going to let you be my enemy any more," she went on. "I've decided that you have got to be my friend, whether you want to be or not—and what I decide upon must be."

Bad Anse Havey stood looking into her eyes with the disconcerting steadiness of gaze that she always found it difficult to sustain, but his only response was a sober "I'm obliged to ye."

Perhaps that letter, with its old reminders had brought back a little of the old self's innocent coquetry. She stood with her gloved hands in the deep pockets of her sweater jacket with his coat hanging from her shoulders. About her deep-violet eyes and sensitive lips lurked a subtle appeal for friendship—perhaps, though she did not know it—for love.

"I have behaved abominably to you, Mr. Havey," she confessed. "It's natural that you should refuse me forgiveness." For a moment her eyes danced and she looked up, challengingly, into his face. "But it's natural, too, that I should refuse to let you refuse. We are going to be friends. I am going to smash your old feud to splinters and I'm going to beat you, and just the same we are going to be friends."

Again his reply was brief. "I'm obliged to ye."

"You have been very good to me," she went on, and the note of banter left her voice; "and you refused to let me thank you."

For a moment he was silent, then he replied awkwardly: "I reckon it's pretty easy to be good to you." After that she heard him saying in a very soft voice:

"One of the first things I remembers is being fished up here by mammy when I was a spindlin' little chap. She used to bring me up here and tell me Indian stories. Sometimes my pappy came with us, but mostly it was just my mammy an' me."

"Your father was a soldier, wasn't he?" she asked.

"Yes. He was a captain in Morgan's command. When the war ended he come on back here an' relapsed. I reckon I'd oughter be right smart ashamed of that, but somehow I'm to'able proud of it. He 'lowed that what was good enough for his folks was good enough for him."

He broke off suddenly and a smile came to his face; a remarkably naive and winning smile, the girl thought. Striking an attitude, he added in a tone of mock seriousness and perfect lowland English, without a trace of dialect: "I beg your pardon, Miss Holland. I mean that what was sufficiently good for his environment appeared adequate to him."

The girl's laughter pealed out in the cool air, and she said with an afternote of surprise: "Why, Mr. Havey, you didn't speak like a mountain man then. I thought I was listening to a 'furriner'."

He nodded his head and the smile died from his lips. Into his eyes came the look of steady resolve which was willing to fight for an idea.

"I just did that to show ye that I could. If I wanted to, I reckon I could talk as good English as you. I reckon ye won't hardly hear me do it no more."

"But why?" she inquired in perplexity.

"I reckon it sounds kinder rough an' ign'rant to ye, this mountain speech. Well, to me it's music. It's the language of my own people an' my own hills. I loves it. It don't make no difference to me that it's bad grammar. Birds don't sing so sweet when ye teaches 'em new tunes. To my ears the talk of down below is hard an' unnatural. I don't like the ways nor the speech of the flat countries. I'll have none of it. Besides, I belongs here, an' if I didn't talk like they do my people wouldn't trust me." He paused a moment, then added: "I'd hate to have my people not trust me. So if ye don't mind, I reckon I'll go on talkin' as I learnt to talk."

She nodded her head. "I see," she said quietly.

"What do ye aim to call this school?" he asked suddenly.

"Why, I thought I'd call it the Holland school," she answered, and when he shook his head and said "Don't do it," she colored.

"I didn't mean to name it for myself, of course," she explained. "I wanted to call it after my grandfather. He always wanted to do something for education here in the Kentucky hills."

"I didn't mean to find no fault with the name of Holland," he told her gravely. "That's as good a name as any. But don't call it a school. Call it a college."

"But," she demurred, "it's not going to be a college. It's just a school."

Again the boyish smile came to his face and seemed to erase ten years from his age. His manner of speech made her feel that they were sharing a secret.

"That don't make any difference," he assured her. "Mountain folks are all mighty proud an' touchy. I shouldn't be astonished if some gray-haired folks came to study the primer. They'll come to college all right, but it wouldn't hardly be dignified to go to school, if you want to get 'em ye must needs call it a college."

The girl looked at him again and said in a soft voice: "You are always teaching me things I ought to know. Thank you."

Juanita stood as he left her and watched him striding down the slope. On his part he went back to his house and found it suddenly dark and cheerless and unsatisfying.

Into the soul of Bad Anse Havey had come a new element, and the prophet which was in him could see a new menace; a necessity for curbing the grip of this new dream which might easily outgrow all his other dreams and bring torture to his heart. Here was a woman of fine fiber and delicate culture in whose eyes he might at best be an interesting barbarian. Between them lay all the impassable barriers that quarantined the tangled coves of the mountains from the valleys of the rich lowlands. Between their lives and viewpoints lay the same irreconcilable differences.

And yet her image was haunting him as he went his way, and in his heart was awakening an ache and a rapture.

On several of her buildings now the hammers were busy shingling the roofs. Her influence grew and spread among the simple folk to whom she was unostentatiously ministering—an influence with which the old order must some day reckon.

Anse Havey set his face against crossing her threshold with much the same resolution that Odysseus stuffed his ears against the siren song—and yet with remarkable frequency they climbed at the same time from opposite directions and met by the poplar tree on the ridge.

"It's the wrong notion," he told her obstinately, when her enthusiasm broke from her. "It's teachin' things that's goin' ter make the children ashamed of their cabins an' their folks. It's goin' ter make 'em want things ye can't hardly give 'em."

"Go to any cabin in these hills an' ye'll find the pinch of poverty, but ye won't find shame for that poverty in none of 'em. We ain't got so many virtues here maybe, but we've got a few. We can wear our privations like a uniform that we ain't ashamed of—yes, an' make a kind of virtue out of it."

"I'm not out of sympathy with that," she argued; "I think it's splendid."

"All right," he answered; "but after ye've taught 'em a few things they won't think it's splendid. Ye'll breed discontent an' then ye'll go away, an' all ye'll have done will be to have knocked their one simple virtue down 'round their ears."

"How many times do I have to tell you I'm not going away?" demanded the girl hotly. "Just watch me."

Again he shook his head, and into his eyes came a look of sudden pain. "I reckon ye'll go," he said. "All good things go. The birds quit when winter comes an' the flowers go."

So, in an impersonal way, they kept up their semblance of a duel and mocked each other.

Scientists discover the cause of bleeding gums and loose teeth

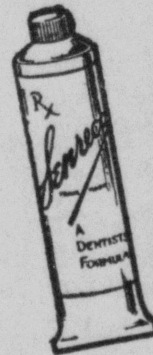

The old idea that bleeding gums and loose teeth (symptoms of pyorrhea) are due to little pieces of tartar or bone under the gums, has been exploded. Scientists have made the astounding discovery that this disease is caused by a germ which is found in every human mouth.

This germ is the most active and destructive enemy of your teeth. Are you protecting them against it? You can ward off its constant attack and escape the dread results of the disease by using the proper corrective and preventive treatment in your daily toilet.

To meet the need for this treatment and to enable everyone to take the necessary precautions against this disease, a prominent dentist has put his own prescription before the public in the convenient form of Senreco Tooth Paste. Senreco contains the best corrective and preventive for pyorrhea known to dental science. Used daily it will successfully protect your teeth from this disease. Senreco also contains the best harmless agent for keeping the teeth clean and white. It has a refreshing flavor and leaves a wholesomely clean, cool and pleasant taste in the mouth.

Start the Senreco treatment tonight—full details in the folder wrapped around every tube. Symptoms described. A 2½ oz. tube is sufficient for six or eight weeks of the pyorrhea treatment. Get Senreco at your druggists today, or send 4c in stamps or coin for sample tube and folder. Address The Sental Remedies Co., 506 Union Central Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Ancient Trade Unions.

Seven thousand years ago there were trade unions in Nineveh and Babylon, and so strict were their rules that in some cases the penalty of death was inflicted for infringing them. Each man's work was strictly defined, and even the number of hours that he was allowed to work was stated in the charter of his guild or union. Later exactly the same state of affairs existed in Pompeii, and inscriptions have been discovered stating specific appointments of officials to trade unions.

Boils and Pimples Dangerous S. S. S. Your Remedy

Standard For Fifty Years

Modern science has proven that boils and carbuncles, pimples and unsightly skin blotches, are the danger signals of diseased blood. Scaly skin and itching of Eczema, Scrofula, rashes—all skin diseases are aggravated by bad blood—it's the infected blood that's dangerous. Don't wait for the boils. If you have pimples and blotches, take instant action. Pimples tell you that your blood is filled with impurities. You must wash out your blood, strengthen and stimulate it to healthy action with Nature's own blood tonic, S. S. S. It is the standard blood purifier of the world. Don't use any drugs, don't use ointments and salves. S. S. S. reaches the blood, drives out the impurities. It makes healthy perspiration—the poison is literally sweated out through the skin. Boils, blotches, Eczema and the Scrofula indications disappear. It does what salves and lotions can never do—it goes to the very root of the trouble by reaching the blood. Your skin becomes clear and you soon feel the vigor of the return of perfect health. S. S. S. is purely vegetable. You can get it at any druggist's, but you must take S. S. S. ## Sunday School Lesson

Lesson V. October 31 Fourth Quarter
BOY JOASH CROWNED KING. 2 Kings 11:1-20.

GOLDEN TEXT.—The house of the wicked shall be overthrown; But the tent of the upright shall flourish.—Prov. 14:11.

Apart from the story of Ahab we have only considered the lives of Jeroboam, who made Israel to sin, and that of good King Asa. The story of the ten tribes and their kings was bad all through, and, although Jehu destroyed Baal out of Israel, yet he took no heed to walk in the law of the Lord God of Israel with all his heart, but departed not from the sins of Jeroboam (II Kings x, 31). As to Judah, the two tribes, Jehoshaphat, who succeeded his father, Asa, was a good king on the whole, but his fellowship with the king of Israel was bad, and he was reproved for it in these words: "Shouldst thou help the ungodly and love them that hate the Lord?" (II Chron. xviii, 1; xix, 2). See also II Chron. xx, 35. Jehoshaphat was succeeded by his son, Jehoram, who reigned only eight years, but made his mark decidedly for evil, for he married the daughter of that wicked pair, Ahab and Jezebel, and walked in the ways of the kings of Israel like the house of Ahab. He suffered terribly in his body and from his enemies, according to a message from the Lord by Elijah, and departed without being desired (II Chron. xxi, 5, 6; xlii, 15; xlviii, 20). All his sons were slain except the youngest, Ahaziah, and he became king at the age of forty-two and reigned only one year. He walked in the ways of the house of Ahab, for his mother, Athaliah, and others of the house of Ahab were his counselors to do wickedly (II Chron. xxi, 1-4). He was slain by Jehu, and when his mother saw that her son was dead she slew all the seed royal of the house of Judah, or thought she did. But the living God, who will let nothing of His word fall to the earth, was watching over the seed of the kingdom (II Kings x, 10; xi, 1).

and to prevent any miscarriage of events. He gathered the Levites and the rulers and the captains by hundreds in the house of the Lord and showed them the king's son and said, "Behold, the king's son shall reign, as the Lord hath said of the sons of David," and all the congregation made a covenant with the king in the house of God (verse 4 and II Chron. xxiii, 1-3). As one day is with the Lord as a thousand years and a thousand years as one day, one cannot help thinking of the seventh thousand years when the devil, whom Athaliah so well represented, shall be shut up in the pit and there shall be a fulfillment of the words "Yet have I set my King upon my holy hill of Zion" (Ps. li, 6). All through the book there are so many foreshadowings of the coming kingdom upon which our hearts should be constantly set, for all the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory that shall be revealed in us (Rom. viii, 18). Jehoiada arranged all in their places, with instructions to those with weapons to compass the king roundabout, and he brought forth the king's son and anointed him, crowned him, gave him the testimony and made him king, the people clapping their hands and saying, "God gave the king" (verses 8, 11, 12). Jehoiada made a covenant between the Lord and the king and the people that they should be the Lord's people, and all the people of the Lord rejoiced, and the city was quiet.

Joash was seven years old when he began to reign (verses 17, 20, 21). They broke down the house of Baal and broke in pieces thoroughly his altars and his images and slew Athaliah, that wicked woman with the sword, and the priest appointed officers over the house of the Lord (verses 18, 20). It must have seemed like a change from hell to heaven for the people of Judah. What will it be for the whole world when a king shall reign in righteousness, and the work of righteousness shall be peace, and the effect of righteousness quietness and assurance forever! (Isa. xxxii, 1, 17). The readers of these lesson notes may think that I quote some passages very often, but it is because they mean so much to me. They are my meat and drink. May they all mean more to each of us! Joash is the youngest king of whom we read, but good King Josiah was but one year older when he began to reign (II Kings xxii, 1). Every good king was in some measure a type of Him who when He was but a babe was worshipped as King of the Jews (Matt. ii, 1, 2, 11), but who is still waiting for His kingdom. Joash was wonderfully preserved that the word of the Lord concerning David and his kingdom might not fail, and we may be quite certain that the other assurances to David which are not yet fulfilled shall be fulfilled to the letter in God's own good time and way. The promises of God are absolute certainties, and we may rest our whole weight upon them.

BULGARS OPEN WAY TO NISH

Take Zaitchevo and Kniazevo
From Serbs.

TEUTONS CONTINUE ADVANCE

Sweeping Southward on Both Sides of the Morava—Will Use Danube to Convey Coal and Ammunition to Turkey.

London, Oct. 29.—The central army of the Bulgarians invasion of Serbia has broken the stubborn resistance of Serbians after a week's violent fighting and has captured Zaitchevo and Kniazevo, the two places that have been thus far the main obstacle in the road to Nish.

Both are on the Negotin-Nish railway, south of the Timok valley. The southern point, Kniazevo is about thirty miles from Nish. The Bulgars are now expected to sweep southwestward upon Nish to gain control of the Oriental railroad.

The Teuton invaders also claim "continued advance," although the headway is not specified. Since beginning their drive they have taken 2,043 prisoners. Kragujevatz, the chief Serbian arsenal, is closely menaced by the central Teuton army sweeping southward on both sides of the Morava.

Further south, due east of Nish, the Bulgarians took the height of Krenovac, about fifteen miles northwest of the strongly fortified city of Pirot.

The Daily Mail learns from its Salonica correspondent that Pirot, too, is in Bulgarian hands, but this is not confirmed in the official German statement telling of the Bulgarian gains.

The French forces in the south, co-operating with the southern Serbian army, are reported in Salonica, dispatches to be driving the Bulgarians before them. One report claims the capture of Uskub by them.

Bucharest advices state that 150,000 French troops, with one hundred big guns have been landed at Salonica. The first hint as to how the Bulgaro-Teuton junction in the bend of the Danube is to be exploited, comes in a dispatch from Buda Pest, which says that the Germans are preparing to use the Danube for conveying large quantities of coal and ammunition to Turkey and to convey overland parts of submarines and electric equipment.

The Daily Mail's correspondent learns from Vienna that the junction of the Bulgars and Teutons already has resulted in clearing the Danube of Serbians, all the Danube ports being in the invaders hands.

The Athens correspondent of the Daily Mail telegraphs that the Franco-Serbian troops in the south are forcing back the Bulgarian left wing along the Bregalnitsa river to Istip, following up the complete defeat of the Bulgarians at Kuprili (Veles). The Bulgarians are said to be fleeing in disorder.

The same dispatch asserts the Serbians have been reinforced from the south and that the Serbian withdrawal from Uskub was carried out in perfect order to the mountains commanding the town. The Bulgarian left having been since turned, and the Serbians around Uskub reinforced, the Bulgarians are said to have found Uskub untenable and after a severe attack by the Serbians retired toward Istip.

GIVES NOTICE TO BANKS

Comptroller Williams Objects to Excessive Interest Rates.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Comptroller of the Currency Williams, in an official communication to the national banks, called attention to the provision which prohibits a bank from charging an interest rate higher than is permitted by the laws of the state in which the bank is located. The comptroller declared that the sworn statements of conditions of a great many national banks show that the section against usury has been grossly violated.

The publication of the comptroller's communication is another step in the campaign he has been waging against the charging of high interest rates by the national banks.

Some time ago he made a sensational speech charging that certain banks had "gouged" borrowers, citing instances where rates ranging from 10 to 100 per cent had been charged.

SEATTLE TERMINALS BURN

Loss Estimated Between Million and Million and a Half Dollars.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 29.—Between $500,000 and $750,000 loss was entailed when fire destroyed the United States bonded piers 34 and 35 at Locust Point.

For hours the fire raged and at one time threatened to leap across the slip and communicate with the freight piers to the east of the burning structure. The piers are owned by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

Car Kills Cattle.
Newcastle, Ind., Oct. 29.—Twenty-six head of cattle were killed when an interurban car ran into a herd browsing on the right of way near the Stypher's farm, west of Lewisville.

POSSE CAPTURES ASSAILANT

Arrest Man After Chase Who Attacked Farmer's Wife.

Council Bluffs, Ia., Oct. 29.—Following an attack on Mrs. J. W. King, wife of a young farmer, at her home near Hancock, Harry Roden was captured by a sheriff's posse.

Roden had been working for King four months. He says he quarreled with Mrs. King over money due him. Mrs. King was shot twice. An operation was performed in an effort to save her life.

Kemp Jury Disagrees.

Kokomo, Ind., Oct. 29.—The second jury in the case of Dr. G. P. Kemp, charged with the death of Mrs. Sarah Benson, Greentown, as the result of a criminal operation, failed to agree and was discharged. The state will dismiss the case.

Boy Dies From Scalding.

Kokomo, Ind., Oct. 29.—Scalds which he received when he fell into a tub of water with his baby brother resulted in the death of Raymond Eugene Porter. The baby also died.

Dies From Eating Berries.

Rengo Belt Reducing Corsets

will positively hold THEIR shape and YOUR shape

The Rengo Belt abdominal reducing feature is an integral part of every Rengo Belt corset, without which these garments would lack much of the strength for which they have gained fame.

This feature puts strength into the corset without adding weight. The discovery of its reducing and strengthening principle made Rengo Belt corsets the strongest ever offered for medium and stout women and made it possible for us to announce these garments as positively unbreakable.

Rengo Belt Corsets are pre-eminently suited to the woman who wants strong support or who wishes to put unusually heavy stress upon the garment. Rengo Belt corsets are strong enough to stand where every other corset fails.

Boned throughout with double watch-spring steels, guaranteed not to rust.

There are models with and without "Steelastic" webbing. When extra flexibility and added support is desired, our exclusive "Steelastic" will be found to possess superior strength and wearing quality.

"AMERICA FIRST" OUR NEW SLOGAN; SOON TO RING THROUGHOUT LAND

Wilson's Warning to Aliens to Get Off the Fence Meets With Universal Approval.

Roosevelt In Typical Speech Voices Same Sentiments In More Vigorous Language.

AMERICA first." Henceforth that is the slogan that will ring throughout the width and breadth of this country.

President Wilson originated the utterance in a notable speech before the Daughters of the Revolution at a recent meeting held in Washington.

Former President Roosevelt expressed the same sentiment in more vigorous language on the following night in an address before the Knights of Columbus in New York city. The colonel was at liberty to use words with more "punch" than would be becoming the chief executive of the United States.

As the New York World points out, President Lincoln at the Springfield convention said, "I do not believe this government can endure half slave and half free." It adds that neither can it endure half American and half alien.

Continuing, the World says editorially: "President Wilson in his address before the Daughters of the Revolution defined the most vital issue that the people of the United States have faced since slavery and secession were throttled—'America first.' The issue goes to the very life of the republic. All the political differences, all the economic differences, all the industrial differences of the last fifty years were trifling in comparison with the fundamental question of whether the American people are the American people or whether they are a congeries of European immigrants who recognize no allegiance of patriotism to the country of their adoption."

"House Divided Cannot Stand."

"Lincoln's Scriptural warning that 'a house divided against itself cannot stand' is as applicable today as it was in 1858."

"Mr. Roosevelt did not overstate the case when he said, echoing the sentiments of President Wilson:

For an American citizen to vote as a German-American, an Irish-American or an English-American is to be a traitor to American institutions, and those hyphenated Americans who terrorize American politicians by threats of the foreign vote are engaged in treason to the American republic."

"President Wilson could not well answer these threats, because they have been made against him personally, but Mr. Roosevelt has answered them for him, and the sentiment that Mr. Roosevelt expressed in this quotation from his speech must be the sentiment of every American who is loyal to his country, to his country's flag and to his country's institutions."

"The issue which President Wilson so felicitously stated in the words 'America first' cannot be evaded. It must be met in the coming session of congress. It may be met in the national campaign of 1916, and on this issue every American voter has a right to know how his neighbor stands."

"The blame for the situation that confronts the country does not rest alone upon the hyphenated citizen. It must be shared by men who knew better, but who capitalized the foreign vote for sordid partisan advantage."

Politicians Manipulate Votes.

"For years managing politicians of both parties have made a business of manipulating this vote and have helped thereby to maintain its solidarity."

Every campaign has had its appeal to the German vote, to the Irish vote, to the Jewish vote, to the Italian vote, to the Scandinavian vote, to the Polish vote and to any other kind of vote that desperate partisanship could consolidate and reach. How could true Americanism be expected to take root in a soil that American politicians deliberately starved of its Americanism?

"In the easy, tolerant, humorous way of the American people these appeals to the racial consciousness of the foreign voter have been treated playfully and jestingly, but the foreign voter has not regarded them in that spirit. He has taken them seriously, and he naturally came to believe that he was important politically not because he was an American citizen, but because he was German or Irish or Italian or Polish or Scandinavian or Jew, until we have at last reached a stage at which a president of the United States can be threatened here and in Europe with political extermination for daring to put the interests of the United States above the interests of European monarchies."

"President Wilson is not alone in his desire to have a lineup and let the men who are thinking first of other countries stand on one side—Biblically it should be the left—and all those who are for America first, last and all the time on the other side." We can not have this lineup too soon, and the result cannot be allowed to remain in doubt. Either an overwhelming majority of American citizens, regardless of their racial origin, are for America 'first, last and all the time' or the republic is a failure, and all the blood that was shed in the Revolutionary war and in the civil war was shed in vain."

Patriotism at Fever Heat. Not in recent years, certainly not since the Spanish-American war, has the patriotism of all real American citizens been so aroused as it has by the speeches of the president and one of his predecessors.

The cry "America first" is sure to be heard all over the republic during the elections that are to come. Some have gone so far as to say that it will be the Democratic slogan in the 1916 campaign. Surely it will be received with great enthusiasm by all really patriotic citizens of this country.

President Wilson's speech will go down in history as one of the most typically American utterances that he has ever made.

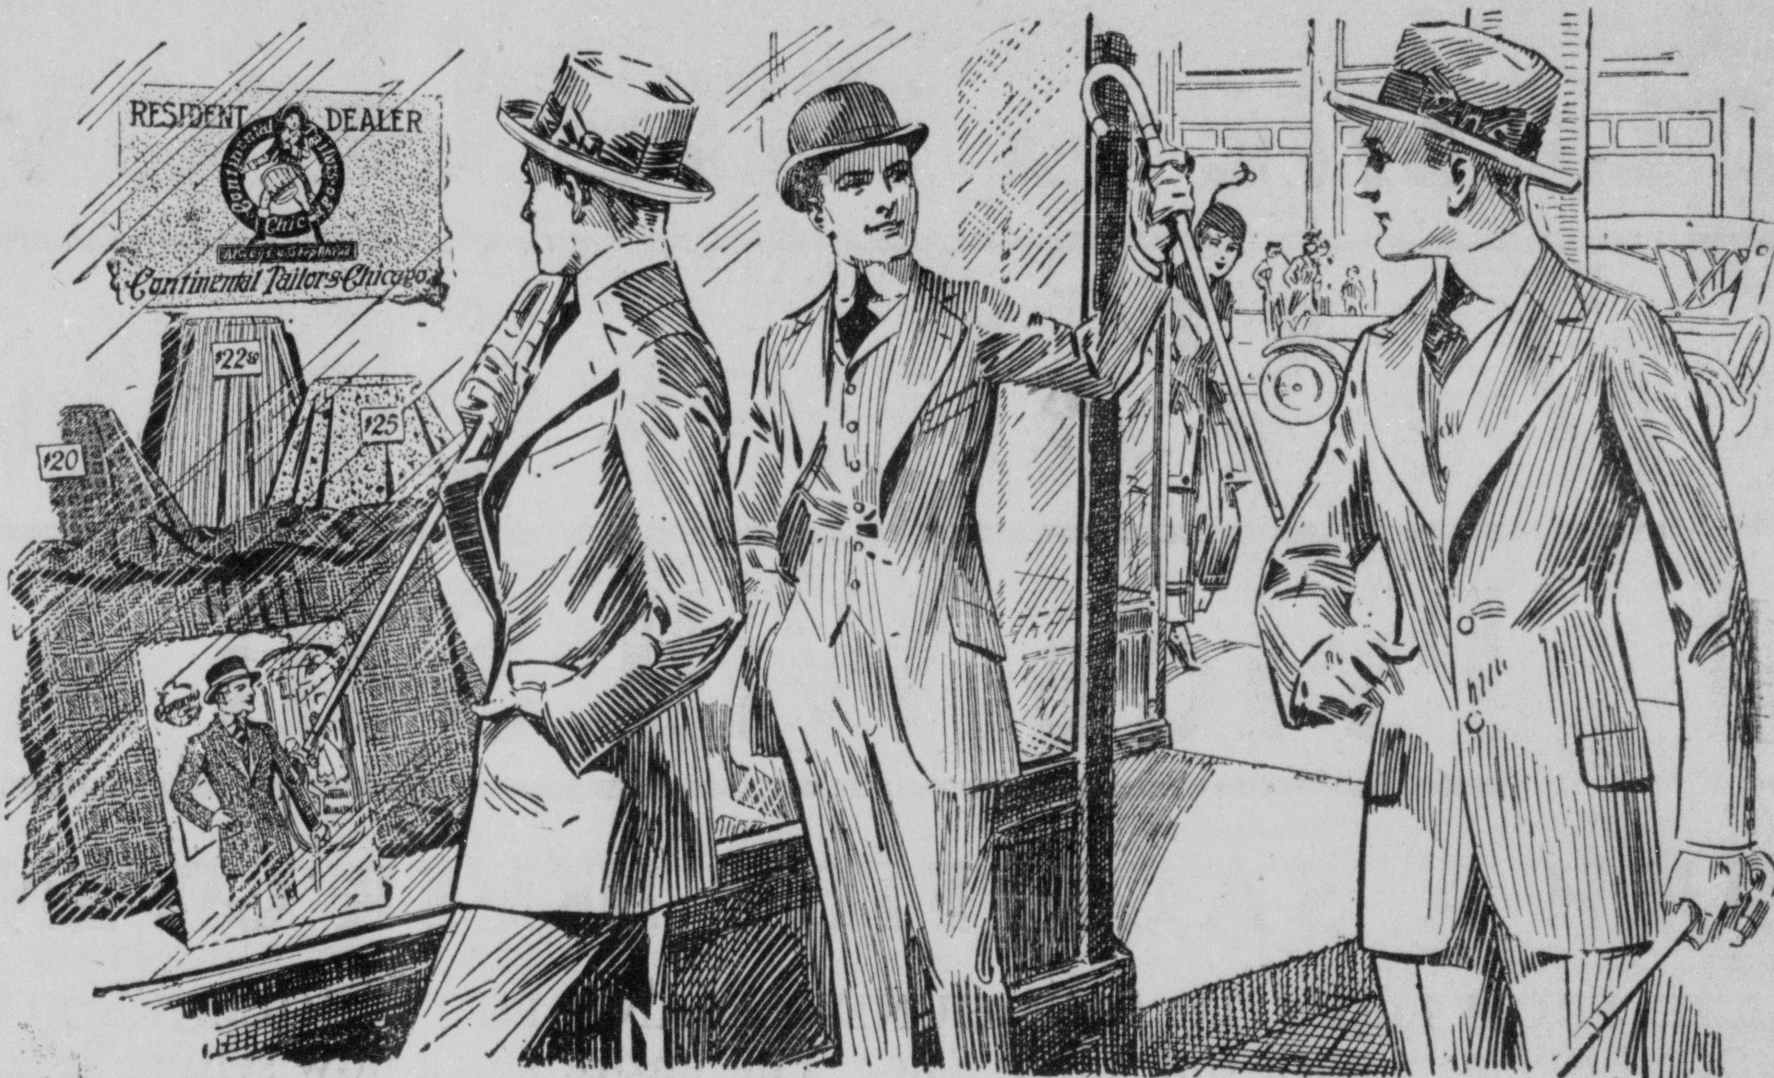

The president spoke in a most kindly way about foreign born citizens of the United States. At the same time he reminded his hearers that a minority of naturalized Americans have not since the outbreak of the European war been overloyal to the great American ideals, but he declared he knew where the vast majority of American citizens of foreign birth would stand if a census were taken on the issue of America first.

In part Mr. Wilson said: "There is a very great thrill to be had from the memories of the American Revolution, but the American Revolution was a beginning, not a consummation, and the duty laid upon us by that beginning is the duty of bringing the things then begun to a noble triumph of completion. For it seems to me that the peculiarity of patriotism in America is that it is not a mere sentiment. It is an active principle of conduct. It is something that was born into the world, not to please it, but to regenerate it. It is something that was born into the world to replace systems that had preceded it and to bring men out upon a new plane of privilege."

"So from generation to generation strangers have had to be indoctrinated with the principles of the American family, and the wonder and the beauty of it all have been that the infection has been so generously easy. For the principles of liberty are united with the principles of hope. Every individual as well as every nation wishes to realize the best thing that is in him, the best thing that can be conceived out of the materials of which his spirit is constructed."

Drawn by American Ideals. "It has happened in a way that I think fascinates the imagination that we have not only been augmented by additions from outside, but that we have been greatly stimulated by those additions. Living in the easy prosperity of a free people, knowing that the sun has always been free to shine upon us and prosper our undertakings, we did not realize how hard the task of liberty is, and how rare the privilege of liberty is, and men were drawn out of every climate and out of every race because of an irresistible attraction of their spirits to the American ideal."

"Every political action, every social action, should have for its object in America at this time to challenge the spirit of America; to ask that every man and woman who thinks first of America should rally to the standards of our life. There have been some among us who have not thought first of America, who have thought to use the might of America in some matter not of America's originative and have forgotten that the first duty of a na-

RINGING SENTENCES IN THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

"We are not trying to keep out of trouble. We are trying to preserve the foundations upon which peace can be rebuilt."

"Now we have come to a time of special stress and test. There never was a time when we needed more clearly to conserve the principles of our own patriotism than this present time."

"Every political action, every social action, should have for its object in America at this time to challenge the spirit of America; to ask that every man and woman who thinks first of America should rally to the standards of our life."

"Neutrality is a negative word. It is a word that does not express what America ought to feel."

"America has a great cause which is not confined to the American continent. It is the cause of humanity itself."

"I look forward to the necessity in every political agitation in the years which are immediately at hand of calling upon every man to declare himself where he stands. Is it America first or is it not?"

"I am not deceived as to the balance of opinion among the foreign born citizens of the United States, but I am in a hurry to have an opportunity to have a lineup and let the men who are thinking first of other countries stand on one side—Biblically, it should be the left—and all those that are for America first, last and all the time on the other side."

tion is to express its principles in the action of the family of nations and not to seek to aid and abet any rival or contrary ideal.

"Neutrality is a negative word. It is a word that does not express what America ought to feel. America has a heart, and that heart throbs with all sorts of intense sympathies, but America has schooled its heart to love the things that America believes in, and it ought to devote itself only to the things that America believes in and, believing that America stands apart in its ideals, it ought not to allow itself to be drawn, so far as its heart is concerned, into anybody's quarrel."

Knows Where They Stand.

"Some of the best stuff of America has come out of foreign lands, and some of the best stuff in America is in the men who are naturalized citizens of the United States. I would not be afraid upon the test of 'America first' to take a census of all the foreign born citizens of the United States, for I know that the vast majority of them came here because they believed in America, and their belief in America has made them better citizens than some people who were born in America."

"I would not feel any exhilaration in belonging to America if I did not feel that she was something more than a rich and powerful nation. I should not feel proud to be, in some respects and for a little while, her spokesman if I did not believe that there was something else than physical force behind her. I believe that the glory of America is that she is a great spiritual conception and that in the spirit of her institutions dwells not only her distinction but her power, and that the only thing that the world cannot permanently resist is the moral force of great and triumphant convictions."

The former president's speech was a typical Rooseveltian utterance. He stirred his vast audience to the highest pitch of enthusiasm when he declared:

Some Roosevelt Punches.

"If songs such as 'I Didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Soldier' had been popular in '76 and '81 there wouldn't be any one here today to sing them."

Other "punches," delivered straight from the shoulder, were:

"There is no room proper in this country for the hyphenated American," almost shouted the colonel. "You can't hoist two flags on the same flagpole and not have one underneath the other."

"What is true of creed," continued the colonel, "is no less true of nationality. There is no room in this country for hyphenated Americans. When I refer to hyphenated Americans I do not refer to naturalized Americans. Some of the very best Americans I have ever known were naturalized Americans—Americans born abroad. But a hyphenated American is not an American at all. This is just as true of the man who puts 'native' before the hyphen as of the man who puts German or Irish or English or French before the hyphen."

"The men who do not become Americans and nothing else are hyphenated Americans, and there ought to be no room for them in this country. The man who calls himself an American citizen and who yet shows by his actions that he is primarily the citizen of a foreign land plays a thoroughly mischievous part in the life of our body politic."

"During the last year and a quarter it has been brought home to us in startling fashion that many elements of our nation are not yet properly fused. It ought to be a literally appalling fact that members of two of the foreign embassies in this country have been discovered to be implicated in inciting their fellow countrymen, whether naturalized American citizens or not, to the destruction of property and the crippling of American industries that are operating in accordance with internal law and international agreement."

"We should devote ourselves as a preparative to preparedness, alike in peace and war, to secure the three elemental things—one, a common language, the English language; two, the increase in our social loyalty—citizenship absolutely undivided, a citizenship which acknowledges no flag except the flag of the United States and which emphatically repudiates all duality of intention or national loyalty, and, third, an intelligent and resolute effort for the removal of industrial and social unrest, an effort which shall aim equally at securing every man his rights and to make every man understand that unless he in good faith performs his duties he is not entitled to any rights at all."

400,000 CRIMINALS HERE.

One-eighth Mentally Wrong, Says Head of Prison Association.

There are 400,000 criminals in the United States, and 12 per cent of them are "wrong in the head," according to figures given at the American Prison association convention at Oakland, Cal., by the president, Joseph B. Byers of Philadelphia.

He said that in Massachusetts, an average state, 57.6 per cent of prison inmates are "repeaters," and they commit 91 per cent of the crimes. Feeble minded criminals, he asserted, should be kept by themselves, as they are incapable of doing anything under the so called "honor system."

He would have parents pay for the support of their delinquent children, and he would do away with all the county jails and substitute houses of detention under state control.

Ancients and the Aurora Borealis. Many people believe that the aurora borealis is a phenomenon peculiar to modern times. But this is not true. The ancients used to call it chasmata, bolides and trabes, names which expressed the different colors of the lights. The scarlet aurora was looked on by the superstitious barbarians as an omen of direful slaughter, so it is not unusual for descriptions of bloody battles to contain allusions to northern lights. In the annals of Cloon-mac-noise it is recorded that in 688 A. D., accompanying a terrible battle between Leinster and Munster, Ireland, a purple aurora lit the northern skies, foretelling the slaughter.
